

As a current XM subscriber I don't know how I survived living in the tri-state area without the real-time traffic coverage that xm provides for NYC and it's surrounding areas. I gladly pay for this service and the over 150 channels of music without hesitation. THE NAB has no right to restrict XM or other satellite radio providers just because it may mean lost of business to them. Radio is free and will always have listeners. For those of us who choose to pay for a better music selection and traffic services (where I don't have to wait over 20 minutes)-let us.
